

SALT LAKE DAILY HERALD

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 13, 1880.

THE DAILY HERALD is published every morning, Mondays excepted, at Salt Lake City, near First South, Salt Lake City, by the HERALD PUBLISHING AND PRINTING COMPANY. Subscription price $10.00 per annum, postage included, in advance. Single copies, 5 cents. To weekly subscribers, collection made by carriers, 25c a week.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY HERALD is published every Wednesday and Saturday morning, at $4.00 a year, six months, $2.00; postage included. Postage outside the U. S. and Canada, extra.

STOFFORD BROOKS, the clergyman who is becoming so famous as a leader of the advanced school of thought in the English Church, is said to be a remarkably handsome person. His face is refined and intellectual, and he has a dome-like forehead, reminding one of the portraits of Shakespeare.

FOUR NEGROES were found in an Alabama graveyard going through with mummies which they thought, was to give them certain magical powers. One was on his knees praying at the head of a grave, another was on his knees cursing at the foot, and the other two were playing a game of cards in the center.

A YOUNG woman, rather prepossessing in appearance, but possessed of a considerable growth of beard, is once a week a visitor to a barber shop at Clinton, Ga. She takes her seat in a chair, just like a man, and quietly submits her face to the lather brush and razor. Shown have tried to induce her to travel as a bearded woman, but she scornfully rejects their offers.

THE EDITORS of the Christian Union, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's paper, have made an innovation that the profession will heartily commend, though it is not likely to adopt the departure and make it popular. On the evening of the 29th ult., a reception was given to Mr. Thomas Hughes in the editorial parlors of the Christian Union, the hosts being the editors. Mr. John Hubbardton presiding sketches the affair in that paper. Among the guests were many of the distinguished literary and professional gentlemen of the country, and letters of regret from others were read.

MALE BAGE desired to be introduced upon his house near Cleveland, O., and on all sides he placed notices that no visitors would be received. Those who knocked at the door were confronted by the refuse and a cocked revolver. Frenzied dogs roamed in the yard and spring guns were connected with the windows. A constable lately forced an entrance, backed by a posse, in order to serve a paper, and Sage succumbed, after a desperate resistance. He gives no reason for his conduct other than a desire to live alone.

DR. CUYLER has ascertained that fifteen popular churches in New York City contained only 10,000 people the first Sunday in October, although they have sittings for 20,000. He says of attendance at religious services: "It requires but half an eye to discover the alarming fact that this attendance is steadily falling off, both in the cities and in the country, both at the east and in the west. Forty years ago it was claimed that one-half of the population of the city of New York were either wholly or partially connected with some Protestant congregation. Now only one-fourth of the population are even seen in any Protestant place of worship."

PRESIDENT HAYES telegraphed to General Garfield on Wednesday morning: "My heartiest congratulations. God bless you." Other congratulatory telegrams were sent in such quantities that the Cleveland office was unable to transmit them by the general's private wire, and large packages of them were sent by the post to Mentor. Minister James Russell Lowell sent a cordial dispatch by cable. The general sat in his little wooden office, which stands over the back door of his house, reading telegram after telegram, while his pretty little son leaned against him playing with the telephone bells, when to his youthful mind seemed of very small importance.

THE QUESTION of the future of the Utah boy is a thing that puzzles more thoughtful minds. More especially does the conundrum apply to the Salt Lake boy. The country youth, if he will stay there, ordinarily has a fair future before him. He knows how to till the soil, and sweat from it a living. He can take care of cattle, and can labor with his hands, and earn what he requires, and lay by something for the future. Besides, his wants are not so extravagant as are those of the city boy. It is safe to say the average boy of the interior counties will live comfortably, contentedly and happily for one-half the money that the Salt Lake boy thinks he must spend to bring comfort, contentment and happiness. But the present is not of so much importance as the future. Comparatively few of the city boys are being prepared for life. Not one in ten is learning a trade, or gaining a knowledge of any art, science, mechanism or business that will insure him self-support hereafter. It may be that the Salt Lake boys are no more careless or thoughtless as to the future than the boys of Omaha, of San Francisco, or any other city; and whether they are or not does not alter the facts in regard to them. They are not improving their time as they should do in view of the fact that the very large majority will necessarily soon have to look out for themselves. There are not many Utah parents who are going to leave fortunes to their children. There are more fathers and mothers who will need the support of their offspring. Both parents and boys should be thinking and acting for the future, the latter that they may be preparing themselves for the inevitable, the former that their children may become honorable, and industrious members of society. All cannot be lawyers or doctors, though those professions are by no means full either as to numbers or thoroughness of the professionals; nor can all be accountants or clerks, or salesmen, and heaven knows there are plenty of all these for present purposes at least. But in the trades there is room for all the Utah youth not otherwise provided for. Carpenters, blacksmiths, shoemakers, printers, etc., seldom have to go unemployed, and their compensation is usually fair.

For their own good and the general benefit of the community we wish the scores of boys who waste their hours in street loafing, billiard playing or in other foolish ways, would call a halt to themselves and devote their time, talents and energies to acquiring a knowledge of useful trades. They need not flatter themselves that they can get through the world without labor and still be honest. Some may be able to do so, but the many must labor or practice roguery. When a boy turns up his nose at manual labor as something beneath him, he is in danger. Until his ideas change he will bear watching. We have much affection for Utah boys. They are bright, intelligent, active and of many phlegmas, and are capable of high intellectual and physical attainments; but it cannot be denied that many of them are worse than wasting their time, and recklessly throwing away opportunities that no boy can afford to lose.

MINING NOTES.

From the Park City Record:

The Hawkeye shaft is now down about 120 feet.

The Jones Bonanza shaft is down 300 feet. The vein will be crooked next week.

The Lizzie tunnel in Red Pine Canon, between the Homebush and Gioenco, is in sixty feet on the vein, which is said to carry free milling ore. Harry Ingram is running it.

Stopping out the ore body between the 100 and 200 levels in the White Pine commenced yesterday. The tunnel on the 400 level is 12x38, besides which the pump station is to be added on the side. The drift is in seventy-five feet from the shaft.

Two drifts on the 400 level in the Lady of the Lake are being run north and south. Neither have reached the vein, but in one (which one we could not learn) water is commencing to come in freely. The only work done below the 400 level is a pump. Mr. Hoar is the present superintendent, having taken charge on the 15th of August, from which time to September 4th he sunk the shaft 100 feet, his predecessors having sunk but sixty-five feet from April 3d to August 7th. No contract work is being done now. Three shifts are being run and twenty-four men are employed.

Improvements are constantly being made at the Ontario mine. Mr. Currell has just built a new oil house at a safe distance from the works, which is thoroughly fire-proof. The walls are two feet thick, of solid rock masonry, and the roof is an arch of bricks. The doors and windows are of iron. The grade for the new coal house is almost completed. The timbers are all finished and will be erected next week. It will be 40x60 and 27 feet high—a rather commodious coal house. The boarding house has undergone repairs, and is now quite comfortable. The dining room will accommodate eighty men. The new kitchen is perfect in all its details, and the Montebello cooks feel as happy at Montebello as the contractor, W. H. Bowers.

We have known for several months of the promising indications and development day by day along what is named the Jeannette lode, in Thane's Canon, but awaited results of special attention to them. Colonel Wm. M. Ferry, the local owner of this group of claims, has been continuing to work upon them for nearly two years with a systematic and persistent energy, of the details of which we shall have more to say hereafter. The results brought out new forthright proof that even a "lenderfoot" can outmine geological data and common sense into an effective and successful demonstration of what was hidden in the rocks. A series of tunnels of more or less length and appearance claim and striking twenty feet upon a third claim developed the same vein, in each of which rich ore is now being taken out, and has shown the position of a large true fissure vein running through each of the three claims. The assays from the Thane are as follows: (material selected from different parts of the vein across its face): $37.31 silver, 4 per cent. lead; $169.55 silver, 25 per cent. lead; $247.15 silver, 31.35 per cent. lead; $23.93 gold; $239.03 silver, 40 per cent. lead. Assays from the Jeannette and Utah: $122.45 silver; 65 per cent. lead; $31.12 gold; $200.45 silver, 8.2 per cent. lead, $3.18 gold. The mode of working these mines is through tunnels without the expense of sinking shafts and machinery for pumping and hoisting works, as their location is favorable for this developing them, and the great body of water encountered passes out by gravity.

From the Southern Utah Times:

The Nabob Mine in Beaver Lake District, owned by A. Lochrie and W. H. McDonald, is developing into a bonanza of no mean proportions. The ore vein, all ore, is about twenty inches wide. On Monday two assays were made of the highest and lowest grade ore which showed as follows: No. 1, 470.40 ounces silver and 51 per cent. lead; No. 2, 291.64 ounces silver and 28 per cent. lead.

From P. Tieber, superintendent of the Pine Grove Company, we learn that the mine in that district continues to look well. The Carrie Lucille shows a ledge of fine ore three feet wide at the bottom of shaft, and is improving all the time. The Col. Compton, at a depth of thirty-eight feet, has a vein of fine ore eighteen inches wide. This claim gives promise of great richness, as the ore vein improves as work progresses. The Nevada (Col.) Transcript, of the 16th inst., says that 2,000 pounds of rock recently taken from the Ford, McDonald & Mullen mine at Grass Valley, at a depth of 310 feet, is estimated to be worth from $25,000 to $30,000. Some pieces of a few pounds weight are of the value of $300 and $500. These may mean the true character will be taken out at the next stripping of the ledge. It is intended to put the rock through the batteries in a few days, but there are several hundred pounds of it which would be of more value to sell for jewelry than to reduce for bullion. There has been sufficient development to prove that it is the richest spot of ground in California, as no piece of quartz ground has ever yielded as much gold from the same space. There are no indications that the bonanza is near exhaustion; on the contrary, the latest developments are the richest that have yet been made.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

Another Land League Murder. Cork, 12.—Wheeler, the land agent, has been shot dead, near Ooley, County Limerick.

Domestic.

Detroit, 12.—George F. Ketchum, a well known actor, died to-night, aged 42. Washington, 12.—In the matter of the Chevin claim, covered by the letter of St. Louis, the secretary of the Interior, to-day, granted the request made by Mayor Oreston and various other representative parties in interest, for a hearing in regard to the official report. Commissioner Williamson has submitted the report for the secretary's action. The hearing will take place on the 3d of January.

Alabama's Vote.

Montgomery, Ala., 12.—The official vote of Alabama, with four counties to hear from, is Hancock, 88,259; Garfield, 65,074; Weaver, 4,837. The vote of the hear from will add about 2,000 to Hancock's majority. The vote of the state was very light, more than half the voters being absent. There is a proposition pending in the present legislature to change the time of holding the election to the same date as the congressional and presidential elections.

A New Plan for Contests.

Chicago, 12.—Inter-Ocean's Washington correspondent reports that the republican congressmen who have been since the election, to urge a different plan than that heretofore employed in settling contests. In the case of men being contested on account of a fraudulent count, his opponent may be seated, but in the case that contests make out a case of bulldozing and intimidation, it is thought that best plan will be to suspend the sitting member found to have acquired his seat by such means, but not to seat his opponent, but to send the matter back to the electors.

The Chinese Letter Case.

New York, 12.—Several Cumberland witnesses were in the district attorney's office to-day. A strange witness, present, it was claimed, had important revelations to make, and in Bell's office a long time. They then went to the office of United States Commissioner Havens, where they were met by the district attorney, who was present. The grand jury adjourned until Monday. They presented indictments to the court.

Colored Cadets.

Washington, 12.—General Schofield, in his West Point report, discusses the Whitaker case, declaring that it was a fraud and holding that the colored man after a century of slavery, cannot expect to equal in intelligence and ability the white man whose education is one of many years. He regards the negro as an unjustly suspicious. The blacks have not yet reached a point in civilization when they may be governed by more than their own feelings. In their zeal and sincere desire to carry out the policy of government, the authorities of the military academy have gone too far in forcing personal associations between white and black cadets, without regard to prejudice, especially at the military academy, which is a school for the development of the military mind, and not a school for the development of the social and domestic life. The academy is a school for the development of the military mind, and not a school for the development of the social and domestic life. The academy is a school for the development of the military mind, and not a school for the development of the social and domestic life.

Boycott's Condition.

London, 12.—Boycott is hunted and pursued and kept a prisoner in his dreary home. Nobody dares sell him bread, and he is obliged to beg for his food, but remains more defiant than ever. The Orangemen who are coming to harvest his crops will be a real affliction to him, for he has no place to lodge them, and certainly nothing to feed them with. The Times says: "Some prominent members of the Land League, following the Orangemen on a car, but left it at Boycott's gate. Several shots were fired at the barracks in Ballinrobe, where the Orangemen slept on Thursday night, but nobody was hurt. The military were ordered to repel any disturbance at the point of the bayonet. The land league, however, advised the people to be quiet as long as the Orangemen remain at Lough Mask. The garrison will be 100 infantry, sixty cavalry and fifty police. The resident magistrate will constantly attend."

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Its Connection With the Money Letter Fraud.

The Matter of Election Frauds.

Stobbering Over Each Other.

New York, 12.—The executive committee of the national democratic committee had a private meeting to-night. The members present were: New York, Prince, Hewitt, Wm. M. Armstrong, Ohio, and Wm. L. Scott, Pennsylvania; Hiram Aikman, chairman of the democratic state committee of Vermont, acted as proxy for Bradley B. Smalley, of Vermont; Charles J. Canby, treasurer of the national committee as proxy for Alvan W. Sulloway; and Wm. C. Whitney, corporation counsel of this city, as proxy for Oliver B. Horsey, of Maryland. Barum presided. The committee issued the following address:

In response to inquiries the national democratic committee makes the following statement in reference to the so-called Money letter: First, neither the committee nor any sub-committee thereof has ever taken any action in reference to the letter, second, that it was first called to the attention of the chairman of the committee on the night before its publication in the Truth, on the 20th of October, third, that the chairman, through requested Smalley, member of the committee, to examine the letter, but permission to do so was refused at the office of the Truth, fourth, that no member of the committee ever saw the letter or any copy or portion thereof until after its publication, or was in anywise connected therein or gave any advice in reference thereto; fifth, that Hart, publisher of the Truth, brought the original letter to the headquarters, No. 125 Fifth Avenue, on the afternoon of the 20th of October, where it was seen for the first time by any member of the committee, and was then examined by several members of the committee, and other persons not members. All of those who were familiar with the handwriting of General Garfield came to the conclusion that the letter was genuine; sixth, the committee decided to purchase a reasonable number of electotype plates of a fac simile which had already been prepared by the Truth, seventh, that the propriety of this action was not doubted by the committee as the letter seemed to be in harmony with Gen. Garfield's views upon the subject covered by the letter, gathered from the public records of undoubted genuineness; eighth, that the first complete denial was not published until four days after the original publication in the Truth, and to this denial, unsupported by any other evidence, the committee, acting on the basis of the knowledge of the genuineness of the letter, attached no weight, ninth, that therefore when the evidence was offered to show that Money was a real person and not a myth, the committee called for its production as they were bound to do in order to arrive at the truth; tenth, that if the letter has been forged, any fraud committed in reference thereto, or any false evidence has been given, it has been done without the knowledge, consent or approval of the committee, or any member thereof, finally, the committee approves of all honest measures to punish any and all persons who have committed any violation of the law, and have no interest in this matter but to arrive at the very truth of the affair. There should be doubt as to the authenticity of the letter is largely due to the exposure of a violation of the law, and the committee on the stand. By order of the committee.
